

“Interlude” - Timi Yuro

Time is like a dream
And now for the time you are mine
Let's hold fast to the dream
That taste and sparkles like wine
Who know if it's real
Or just something we're both dreaming of
What seems like an interlude now
Could be the beginning of love

Loving you is a world that's strange
So much more than my heart can hold
Loving you makes the whole world change
Loving you I could not grow old
No, nobody knows when love will end
So till then, sweet friend

Time is like a dream
And now for the time you are mine
Let's hold fast to the dream
That taste than sparkles like wine
Who know if it's real
Or just something we're both dreaming of
What seems like an interlude now
Could be the beginning of love
What seems like an interlude now
Could be the beginning of love